MANY SUSPECTS CAUGHT IN NET POLICE SPREAD FOR SLAYER OF THREE

One Prisoner Held at Hackensack Turns Out to Be the Wrong Man.

RAID ON GANGSTERS.

Seven Witnesses of Slaying of Two Policemen Questioned by Dougherty.

Results of the police net spread around the city to prevent the escape of Oreste Sheldiana, accused of the murder of Policemen Heaney and Teare and John Rizzo on Saturday night, began to show today in reports to Police Headquarters of the detention of suspects at points all around the metropolitan district. The net of detectives at work on the case are closing in on the places where it is supposed that the murderer is hiding, and from information at hand at Headquarters it is considered quite certain that Sheldiana is still in the city.

Chief of Police Dunn of Hackensack sent word to Headquarters this afternoon that he thought he had the fugitive locked up in the Hackensack jail. Detective Cavino, who was in Toms River, N. J., on Saturday night, working on a clue, went over to Hackensack and found that Dunn had the wrong man. The Hackensack suspect was released.

An arrest of a suspect was made in a steamship office in Battery Place and another in the West Twenty-third street ferry house. Dozens of men were held up at railroad stations and steamship piers and questioned by detectives. Deputy Commissioner Dougherty has doubled the force on watch at all exits from the city and descriptions of the fugitive have been sent to the railroad detectives in the East and South.

Seven men captured in raids on resorts of gamblers last night were released at Headquarters this afternoon. These men were in the Mulberry street poolroom when Rizzo was shot. All of them know Sheldiana, but whether they gave any information of value as to his whereabouts could not be learned from Commissioner Dougherty.

EVERY PORT IN THE COUNTRY IS WATCHED.

The police believe eventually he will try to sail from some American or Canadian port and a watch will be kept at all steamship piers indefinitely. It is not believed it will be difficult to recognize the diminutive gunman when he comes from cover, as the police have sent out complete descriptions, together with information starting when he began his career of crime at the age of eleven years.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty thinks he has a "fairly good line" on the whereabouts of the man, but until he is certain he will continue to keep all available wires at work in other directions.

The detectives were not certain today the refusal to pay for a borrowed revolver was the only thing back of Rizzo's murder, and the consequent killing of the policemen by the murderer. Gang animosity and jealousy, it is believed, will be shown when all the facts are brought to light.

There is a belief in the department that policemen will soon get modified orders that will enable them to properly handle men known to them to be "bad." Now they must approach them in a spirit of gentleness and tolerance except in cases where a crime has been committed or is about to be. There is a report that an order may go out today to search every suspicious person.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS CREATE A RIOT AND ATTACK TEACHERS

Overturn Tables and Destroy Food Intended for Stuyvesant Pupils.

FREE FIGHT FOLLOWS.

Teachers and Pupils Mix It Up and Police Have to Be Called.

A free for all fight between the pupils and teachers of the Stuyvesant High School this afternoon called out the reserves to the aid of the teachers who were hard pressed by the angry pupils.

The trouble started at noon when the boys went downstairs to luncheon and refused to eat following their assertion that they would go on strike over conditions which existed in the school. Pursuant to a plan formulated by the leaders, they overturned tables and broke dishes, scattering the contents over the floor. They drove back the teachers, who came to restore order. After they had returned to their classrooms the teachers warned them that they must not leave the building until school was dismissed. The teachers further threatened dismissal for several whose names had been taken in connection with the disturbance at noon.

At 2.30, just as school was over, more serious trouble started. The boys collected outside and locked the school doors against their teachers while several more daring ones began to hurl bricks at the windows. When the teachers managed to get out they were attacked by the pupils, and they rolled about on the ground kicking, biting and punching. To coming of the police who were telephoned for ended the disturbance. No arrests were made but an investigation has been started out of which it is said will come arrests and a general dismissal from school of all those who led in the revolt.

Punchcard Ordinance Passed.

The punchcard ordinance drafted by Mayor Gaynor's commission was passed by the Board of Aldermen this afternoon without a dissenting vote. The Mayor had already announced his approval of it, so that his signature is certain to be attached. The measure is designed to remove peddlers from the streets. It sets aside for their exclusive use spaces under the bridges, besides authorizing covered market places for them in other parts of the city. They are to be charged a nominal fee for stand privileges.

Reporter Takes Gas and Dies.

Raffae Adinolfi, thirty-four years old, a reporter living at No. 182 West Forty-eighth street, committed suicide by taking gas at his home this afternoon. His neighbors broke down his door when they smelled the gas in the hallways and found him stretched out on the floor with a gas tube in his mouth.

April Fool Bride and Mother Who Asks Court to Free Girl

MRS. LLOYD REID

The April Fool's Day marriage of Miss Sadie Mullen, a Gibson model and frontpiece of magazines, to Lloyd Reid, a romantic millionaire lawyer of Akron, O., in Pittsburgh last year, came up for annulment before Justice Gerard today, when the little bride asked the Court to end the matrimonial joke. With Miss Mullen was her mother, Mrs. Marie Phillis Mullen.

Mrs. Reid attracted unusual attention in the divorce court. Her appearance was a striking symphony in brown, from the drooping brows that which adorned her luxuriant brown hair to the tiny brown slippers. Her gown was a brown military effect of fashionable cut.

Miss Mullen met Reid while on tour with a Broadway beauty show at Akron, O. After a furious cross country drive in Reid's big car the couple were wedded by a Pittsburgh Alderman whom they routed out of bed early April 1, 1915.

According to Miss Mullen, she suddenly awakened to realize that she was an April Fool's bride. Without a moment's further reflection she left Reid in his car, boarded a train and went back to her company in Akron that night. Two days later she came to New York and told her mother of her foolishness.

Mrs. Mullen promptly engaged Lawyer William Klein and an action was started to annul the marriage. Reid appeared by counsel, but when he learned that under the New York State laws his wife is entitled to have the ceremony quashed, he decided not to offer further objection. Reid was not present when the suit was tried today.

Although the present law of New York which Justice Cholan recently criticized because of its "trial marriage" provision was the one invoked by Mrs. Reid, Mr. Klein produced an antiquated volume of the statutes of Pennsylvania of February, 1770, which provided that persons not of legal age could not contract marriage. He said that even in King George's provinces there was a remedy provided for the young who marry and tire of their spouses before attaining legal age.

This statute is said to have been drafted by William Penn. The law is a rigorous one and forbade marriage unless banns were published and the parties were residents of the county in which the ceremony was to be had. Mrs. Reid is living with her mother in West One Hundred and Third street. Mrs. Mullen exhibited her daughter's birth certificate, showing that at the time she and Reid eloped to Pittsburgh that Sadie was only seventeen years and a few months old.

Another outrage attributed to the suffragettes followed the discovery of the bomb at the Grand Hotel, St. Catharines Church, the parish church of Hatcham, in the southeast of London, which was gutted by fire a few hours later, and the blaze is placed by the police to the account of the militants. The edifice, which belongs to the Episcopal Church and whose vicar was the Rev. Howard J. H. Truscott, was well alight before the fire was discovered, and the roof crashed in soon after the arrival of the firemen.

Rev. Howard Truscott says he saw three women in the church shortly before the fire broke out. He assumed they were worshippers, as the edifice was always kept open for private prayer throughout the day. The Vicar left the building while the women were still there and shortly afterward saw smoke issuing from the windows. A number of jaspers were found scattered about the church.

Scotland Yard has learned of an alleged scheme of the Women's Social and Political Union to have their suppressed suffragette printed as Paris and Amusements across the Channel labelled "women's wear." Customs inspectors at all ports of entry today were warned of the plot and all passengers were searched.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE DECLINE JUNE DATE HERE.

OXFORD, England, May 6.—The athletic authorities of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge have declined the challenge from the Universities of Harvard and Yale for a track and field meet at the Harvard Stadium in June this year. The reasons given are lack of the necessary funds at that time and the fact that the examinations will then be in progress. They suggest the month of September as being more suitable.

APRIL FOOL BRIDE WANTS THE COURT TO END HER JOKE

Miss Mullen Had a Rude Awakening When She Realized It Was April 1st.

INSPECTORS' DEFENSE ITSELF PROVES GUILT, WHITMAN'S LAST WORD

Alibi of Thompson and Obtaining of Affidavits Against Sipp Evidence of "Frame Up" Before Graft Informer Had Fled.

BIG CROWD RUSHES COURT AND WAITS FOR VERDICT

Counsel for Defendants Base Final Plea on Denunciation of State's Witnesses as Perjurers.

The jury retired to deliberate on a verdict in the case of Inspector Sweeney, Murtha, Thompson and Hussey late this afternoon. District Attorney Whitman summed up with a demand for conviction, after an earnest endeavor to show that the defense's own tactics had proven the guilt of all four. Thompson's alibi he reversed into a boomerang, that showed he had ample time for a part in the conspiracy to send Sipp out of town. Sweeney, he said, gathered his accusing affidavits five days before Sipp had left. The "character" testimony he ridiculed as top easy to be obtained.

Justice Seabury then charged the jury on the points of the law. A great crowd that filled the Criminal Court Building, recalling the scenes at the trials of Thaw and of Becker, assembled during the luncheon hour and remained awaiting the verdict.

Police Captain Tierney of the Elm-street station had twelve reserves around Justice Seabury's court room trying to hold back the throngs. It was announced that the doors would be opened at 2.15. It was after 2.30 when the jury returned from luncheon and then the doors were opened. In the meantime the court room had been filled up with favored guests of court attendants, who had been admitted through side doors, as there were only half dozen vacant seats when the doors were opened.

MOVE TO RECALL 'HIGH HAT' MAYOR FOR 'MOVIE' POSING

Some in Salem, Mass., Object to Hurley Being Pictured Saving Silk Tile From Fire.

(By United Press.)

SALEM, Mass., May 6.—Mayor John F. Hurley, famous as the proud wearer of the "titled" high silk tile, today "pooh-poohed" the movement on foot to recall him because he posed for the "movies," recalling the aforesaid high silk tile from the flames enveloping his home.

Six hundred of the 1,700 signatures necessary for a recall have been obtained and citizens who are angered because of the Mayor's "antics" say they will have the others within a week.

In exposing his posing and riding through the streets in a placard-backed automobile with the "movie" men Mayor Hurley declared that it was good advertising for the city. He said that manufacturers seeing the fine apparatus for fighting fires would be attracted to the city.

Italy Must Pay War Claim.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, May 6.—The Franco-Italian Court of Arbitration dealing with the seizure by Italian warships during the Turco-Italian war of the French steamers Carthage and Manoubia decided today that Italy was in the wrong and condemned the Italian Government to pay $22,000 and $800 in the respective cases.

WHITMAN SCOFFS AT "CHARACTER" TESTIMONY.

"We have had to take our witnesses where we found them," said he, "but because the reputation of some has been destroyed by the fact that they were not present at the trial, we are not going to let them go." The District Attorney seemed to be making a point of the fact that some of the witnesses were not present at the trial.
